

I was first introduced to KLOVE as a freshmen in high school riding to school with my sister. I still remember the very first song I heard. It was Steven Curtis Chapman's "Live Out Loud." I have never forgotten that song and it is one of my favorites today. I feel KLOVE brought my sister and I closer to each other, as this was something we had in common, we both enjoyed, and we could talk about together, as she is three years older than me.

Throughout the next year or two, I would listen to KLOVE off and on, but I always found myself wanting to go back to KLOVE. KLOVE offers such a positive message that is hard to describe in words how wonderful it makes me feel inside. I do not have to worry about hearing profanity, crude comments or jokes, degrading lyrics, or anti-Christ messages. KLOVE's name speaks for itself; LOVE! KLOVE provides a loving ministry and a wonderful support system for all its listeners.

I am currently in a junior in college and KLOVE is all I listen to. When I hear the music my friends listen to, it makes me want to turn on KLOVE so I can hear only positive and encouraging music. I can be having a rough day or week, but once I turn on KLOVE and listen to even just a couple songs, I instantly feel better and know that everything will be okay because I know God is working through KLOVE's ministry. I am always amazed at God's glory because whatever I may be going through or feeling, God always makes his message known and provides me an answer through the amazing music. One day I was driving back to campus and Mercy Me's song "Bring the Rain" was playing on KLOVE. I had been having a "down" day and heard this song and began singing, really putting emotion into it and basically pleading with God that although I was having a bad day, I knew everything would be okay. If a little rain in my life to become happy and bring glory to God in the end is what it takes to praise him, I was happy. As the lyrics state, ". . . But if that's what it takes to praise you, Jesus bring the rain." At that exact moment, it began to rain. I knew right there that God had answered my prayers and I immediately felt comforted, as I knew there was no other way that I could be comforted other than with God's message working through the amazing music played on KLOVE. As a sophomore in college last year, I had a falling out with a friend and I had a very difficult time with it, feeling as if I had no place to turn. I feel last year is when I grew ever close to KLOVE, as it was always a reliable source to turn to and listening to the music brightened my days. Having KLOVE's POSITIVE music, ministry, and friends available helped me through a hard year. I also finally supported KLOVE financially for the first time during the Fall Pledge Drive in 2007. I have been listening to the station for years now and have always thought about making a pledge. It was getting down to the last two days of the drive and I was still praying about whether or not to pledge. I was driving back to school when a single mother trying to take care of five or six children on her own called to pledge. She said her money is very tight taking care of so many children on one income, but due to the amazing messages, love, hope, and ministry KLOVE brought to her family, she knew God would help her find a way to pledge and still meet her family's needs. At that moment I knew that if this single mother raising several children on her own could afford to pledge, I could as a college student. Again, I prayed long and hard and God answered my prayers that this was finally my time to give so others can continue to hear God's wonderful message, or introduce new listeners to KLOVE. With all this being said, I could continue on and on about why KLOVE needs to be left just the way it is and it should not be interfered with by outsiders who do not believe in KLOVE's message and would change KLOVE for the worse. If KLOVE were changed, I would not feel I would have a place to turn to anytime I wanted or needed to hear God's word. KLOVE has positively impacted my life and others around me. I am able to make special connections with friends who also listen to KLOVE than I am with friends who do not listen to KLOVE. I try to get them to listen, not by forcing them, but I talk to them about KLOVE and I always have it playing in my car, and I have received some positive comments about the music and how catchy or how amazing the songs are. I also do a lot of babysitting and this is the only music I would have playing, as the kids enjoy the music and I don't have to worry about what they might hear because I know it is only positive information and lyrics. I would be devastated if my local stations were shut down due to unnecessary added expenses, if the message delivered was changed, or if any negative, unnecessary changes were made to KLOVE. We have the right to express our religious freedoms and beliefs and I strongly feel that KLOVE should be allowed to continue in its life-changing ministry. KLOVE has changed my life for the better, and forever.

Thank you for your time, consideration, and listening to my comments. Please keep KLOVE how it currently is.
